All applicants for consultation, loan or photocopy of the thesis have to sign the following declaration:

'I undertake fully to observe the author's copyright in this thesis, not to publish the whole or any part of it without the author's written permission, and not to allow any other person to use the copy made for me'.

1. I hereby authorise The University of Edinburgh to publish the abstract of this thesis, and to authorise others to do so, for scholarly purposes and with proper acknowledgement of authorship.
2. I hereby authorise Edinburgh University Library to copy my thesis for the purpose of supplying copies, on request, to libraries and individuals, subject to them signing the appropriate copyright declaration which will be preserved in Edinburgh University Library.

The University of Edinburgh may keep a copy of your dissertation for use in teaching or research. The Freedom of Information (Scotland) Act 2002 requires the University to make available to any enquirer any information held by the University, unless one of the legislation's narrowly defined exemption applies (see overleaf).

IN EXCEPTIONAL CIRCUMSTANCES authors may ask the University to restrict access to their theses for a limited period. If you require this, please read the form overleaf and obtain your Head of School's signed agreement. If this agreement is obtained this restriction overrides for the period of the restriction your consent as given in paragraph 2 above.

Request to Restrict Access to a Thesis

I request that no access of any kind be permitted to this thesis for one year, commencing from the date of graduation. I understand

- (i) that 'no access' means that no one, not even I, or my supervisor, or my Head of School, or Library staff will have access to the thesis;
- (ii) that at the end of the year the thesis will be made available to library users unless I make a request for the restriction to be extended for a further year. This restriction may, however, be lifted, for a named person for a specified period at the joint request of my Head of School and myself;
- (iii) Edinburgh University Library is under no obligation to contact me about extending the period of restriction. Restriction can be extended for a period of up to 5 years. The restriction then lapses and cannot be renewed.

Certificate by The University of Edinburgh Head of School:

I have read the full text of the above paragraph and I support the request for restriction of access for the following reason(s):-

- The thesis contains information provided in confidence
- Releasing the thesis would cause substantial prejudice to commercial interests
- The thesis contains information about research in progress where there is an intention to publish at a later date
- Other

Please give further details:

In the event that anyone asks to see the thesis, we will use this information to determine whether or not it qualifies for a freedom of information exemption and can be withheld.
