

Réka Siró

Réka was elected as Vice President Activities and Services at Edinburgh University Students' Association following four years of involvement in our student community through student societies and other student facing volunteering schemes such as PALS and Global Buddies.

She ran for this role as she wants to support societies and student groups through their return to campus and because her previous volunteering roles gave her some ideas for enhancing the student experience on campus. As part of her role, Réka looks after student groups within the Students' Association, as well as the Association's commercial outlets and venues, making her one of the most student facing members of the Students' Association team.

Réka has just completed her MA in Linguistics and English Language in May 2021, and she also holds an unconditional offer for the MSc in Speech and Language Processing for the 2022-23 academic year. During her undergraduate studies, Réka has also held various positions at the University, including being a Resident Assistant, Project Management Intern, and most recently, being an Administrative Assistant for Information Services Group. These roles, together with her volunteering involvement, gave her invaluable insight into the structure of our University and the British higher education sector as a whole. Following this role, and the completion of her postgraduate degree, Réka is hoping to pursue a career in language technology and natural language processing.
