

Sharan Atwal

Sharan has been elected President of Edinburgh University Students' Association for the 23/24 academic year to represent the over 49,000 students at the University. In this role Sharan works closely with the University to ensure that students' concerns are heard on the various committees and strategy groups including University Executive.

She is particularly interested in long-term strategic change to address ongoing issues which affect student life on and off campus. Sharan is keen to make sure students can maximise all that the University has to offer through enhancing personal and professional development opportunities and closing the feedback loop between students and the University.

Sharan is a recent graduate from the University of Edinburgh having completed her Undergraduate degree in Maths and Statistics.

During her time as a student, she co-founded the student activist group Tackling Elitism to advocate, support and build a community for students from underrepresented/widening participation backgrounds at the University. Throughout this she has worked on several campaigns including on the reductions to student bursaries. She has also especially worked with the charity Stand Alone UK to support students from estranged and/or care experienced backgrounds.
